Four Tips to Keep Your Freshwater Fish Happy and Healthy

To keep your fish happy and healthy, following these tips will help make maintaining an aquarium fairly easy and trouble-free.

Overcrowding can lead to low oxygen levels in the water. Another crisis of overcrowding includes too much waste. In addition, too many fish in small spaces can cause some of them to die. Check with a pet specialist for the right size tank for your fish.

Water for fish is like air for humans. It is critical to your fish's long-term health. Tap water comes with many elements that need to be balanced in an aquarium in order to support aquatic life. To prepare such water properly, use a de-chlorinating and biological aquarium supplement available at your local pet store.

It is recommended to change a quarter of your aquarium water at least once a month. This will help maintain a clean and healthy tank, plus it keeps nitrate concentrations at a safe level. Use a gravel vacuum to pump out water and waste. Keeping your water clean and maintaining stable water parameters helps promote healthy and strong fish.

Changes in temperature can have negative influence on aquarium fish. Don't place your aquarium in a window that gets a lot of sun or next to heating or air conditioning vents, as drastic temperature changes can make your fish sick or even kill them. Tropical freshwater fish require a constant temperature depending on the species, in which case you'll need to purchase an aquatic heater for your tank.

The Ballet School

The Ballet School, Notting Hill started life in 2002 with just four pupils in the playroom of a house on Westbourne Park Road, which wasn't a very promising beginning. Over a decade on it is now a successful place for all young ballerinas in the Notting Hill area and beyond!

It all began as a result of Claire McNicholl's search for a teacher for her ballet-mad 2-year-old daughter, Estée. She was introduced to Vanessa through a lifelong friend. A couple of classes and a huge amount of coffee later The Ballet School Notting Hill – and a great friendship – was born! The school offers tuition in classical ballet for children aged two and half and up. Our aim is to teach in a fun, creative yet highly professional environment. All our teachers are qualified professionals and a full-time working pianist accompanies each class.

Vanessa Donkin trained at the Royal Ballet School, White Lodge for seven years before going on to dance professionally with the Royal Ballet Company and Cape Town City Ballet.

Vanessa began her teaching career at the Academy of Dance in Los Angeles, CA. She has gone on to teach at the RAD Headquarters as a faculty member of the Dance School. She has also taught on several international RAD Summer and Easter Schools in Tokyo, South Africa, Austria, Germany, Mexico and Indonesia. Other roles for the RAD have included that of online consultant for “Radacadabra” – a children’s website for young ballet fanatics. In 2002 Vanessa started The Ballet School in Notting Hill along with her business partner, Claire McNicholl.

Classes are thirty minutes to two hours depending on the age and level of each child. Enrolment is on an ongoing basis and can be completed at any time during the year. However, students will not be allowed in any dance class without prior registration as we do have waiting lists for most of our classes.
